ABRAZIL
INGREDIENTS FOR HEALTH

The Açai Palm is native to Northern Brazil and is commonly known as Açai berry. It becomes famous worldwide for being extremely rich in polyphenols and antioxidants. The berry is a small, round, black-purple drupe about 0.5 inch (10 mm) in diameter, similar in appearance to a blueberry, but only its skin, exocarp of about 1-2 mm thickness is useful as fruit pulp. The seed makes up over 93% of the entire Açai berry.

Besides making sure we source the best raw material available, our state-of-the-art manufacturing process consistently delivers high quality açai berry powders, what sets us apart to higher standards, when it comes to creating and conceiving and products.
