Caffeine from the
Amazon at its best

ABRAZIL
INGREDIENTS FOR HEALTH

Guaraná, native to the Amazon basin and particularly abundant in Brazil, is a powerful ingredient renowned for its seeds, which, despite being similar in size to coffee beans, boast nearly twice the caffeine content (2-4.5% in guaraná seeds compared to 1-2% in coffee). This natural stimulant delivers not only a strong energy boost but also a distinctive blend of phytochemicals and flavors, making it exceptionally appealing.

As demand for guaraná continues to surge globally, it has become a highly coveted commodity. Its potent energy, rich flavor, and wide-ranging health benefits solidify guaraná as a top choice for both consumers and manufacturers in the competitive health and wellness market.
